First Annual Blue & Gold Weekend Planned

Alumni, students, parents, and friends are invited to the first annual Blue & Gold Weekend: Homecoming 2011 scheduled Friday, September 30, through Sunday, October 1.

A variety of activities are planned that will appeal to alumni, students, and families. Highlighting the list are the Annual Pitt-Greensburg Golf Outing and the inaugural Blue & Gold 5K Run/Walk presented by UPMC Health Plan. Both events are designed to allow alumni and friends of Pitt-Greensburg to enjoy their favorite pastimes while supporting the University and its programs. Registration details may be found on pages 4 and 5 or at www.greensburg.pitt.edu.

Other activities planned for the weekend include a trip to the Cathedral of Learning's Nationality Rooms, Welcome Back Receptions sponsored by various groups on campus, an Alumni Reception and Dinner, and the Blue & Gold Festival. Live entertainment, a bonfire, and an outdoor movie will also be featured.

"Many of our alumni have such strong memories of their time here at Pitt-Greensburg," said Jodi Kraisinger, director of University Relations and Institutional Advancement. "We hope that our alumni will take this opportunity to return to campus to see the changes, visit with friends, and re-establish relationships with faculty and staff?"

When asked, alumni are quick to share their favorite things about Pitt-Greensburg and their memories.

Blue & Gold Weekend is a great opportunity to enjoy autumn on the beautiful Pitt-Greensburg campus.

For Jessica Dick '09, it was that everyone cared about the students. She notes, "Both faculty and staff really took an interest in me and wanted to help me to succeed both in and out of the classroom."

Robert Merda '85 credits Pitt-Greensburg with giving him the ability to succeed in life. Today, his daughter Mallory is a student here, and they plan to participate in the Legacy Diploma Presentation when she graduates. "Because I went to Pitt-Greensburg, I enjoyed a great education and start to my career," says Merda.

David Ranf '97 notes that his fondest memory of Pitt-Greensburg is meeting his wife here. He notes that each faculty member who taught him made his or her mark in one or more ways. ▲

Message from the President

If there is one thing that is constant in our world, it is change. Here at Pitt-Greensburg we continue to initiate changes that we believe will provide a better learning experience for our students and continue to enhance our strong liberal arts academic programs and facilities.

One of the most visible changes happening on campus this year is the construction of the Sustainable Office and Classroom (SOC) Building. We invite you to watch this construction from our web site www.greensburg.pitt.edu (just click on the box labeled "Building Construction Live Video"). Watch for more details about the building and its features in future issues of Blue & Gold.

Other renovation projects occurred over the summer and include HVAC renovations in Chambers Hall and Smith Hall, as well as new carpeting in areas of the Faculty Office Building (FOB), Powers Hall, Millstein Library, and Robertshaw Hall.

The Campus Beautification Community Circle has been busy, too. This spring and summer, they initiated projects that have enhanced the aesthetics of our campus as well as providing outdoor seating areas that build community among students, faculty, and staff. Students living in Westmoreland Hall are now greeted at the entrance of their residence hall with a small courtyard that features several tables and chairs and other seating areas. Smith Hall Lounge, frequented by our students who commute, also received a minor facelift this summer when new couches and chairs replaced the much-used furniture there.

I look forward to welcoming you back to see these changes and improvements for yourself when you return for Blue & Gold Weekend: Homecoming 2011. A full schedule of activities is planned for alumni and students--much of it family-friendly, too. Please be sure to check the schedule of events in this issue of Blue & Gold, as well as at our web site, and make plans now to attend.

Hail to Pitt!

Alumni Profile: Megan Byers '03

At Pitt-Greensburg, I studied... English Writing and Education.
The thing that drew me to Pitt-Greensburg was... the size of the campus. I was definitely not suited for the size of the Oakland campus... When applying to schools, I only applied to Pitt-Greensburg. In retrospect, I suppose I didn't exactly grasp the fact that a college had the ability to deny an application; I was fairly trusting that I would be accepted!

Megan Byers '03 (right) with Kelly Leroch '00.

My first impression of Pitt-Greensburg was... "I love this place!" It was the perfect transition for me into college life, especially in terms of class size. I think a few of the other initial highlights that impressed me were the fact that I didn't have to share a bathroom with an entire floor of girls, and the Dining Hall (which is even more amazing now).

My favorite memories from being a student are... the school-sponsored trips. I traveled to Boston with the Student Activities Board for a conference. I also went to Cleveland and New York City with trips through the campus. They were the perfect chance to get away and were budget-friendly. Specifically during the Cleveland trip, we were eating at a restaurant when a waitress came to our table and asked if we were going to the Cleveland Cavaliers's game (we weren't). A season ticket holder had left his tickets at the bar and they gave them to us for free. The seats were only four rows from the court. These trips definitely provided great memories!

The faculty member(s) who had the greatest influence on me were... (here comes a list!) Lori Jakiela helped to initially open me up to writing during my first semester. I actually started at Pitt-Greensburg as a business major because I had been turned off to English writing/literature toward the end of high school. Lori allowed me to see the freedom in writing--a freedom that a student just does not get to have in high school. Stephen Murabito was my greatest influence for short stories/creative writing. Richard Blevins/Judith Vollmer were my influences for poetry. Perhaps I should have summed this up by saying, "The Pitt-Greensburg English Department greatly influenced me."

After Pitt-Greensburg, I... originally decided to take a short break from school before returning for the Master's of Arts in Teaching. After graduation, the reality of adult life began making it difficult to get back to that Master's program. I began working at Starbucks Coffee as a Barista about six months after college graduation. I grew with the company and was at the Store Manager position when I left Starbucks in 2010. Starbucks allowed me to enjoy great opportunities including a trip to New Orleans to help rebuild homes after Hurricane Katrina.

I am currently... in Customer Service and Sales with the Kurt J. Lesker Company. We specialize in Vacuum Sciences (not vacuum cleaners!). Vacuum Technology is commonly used for research at the University and Government levels. It is also used as production in industries such as automotive and solar energy. When I was enrolled in my many English classes, I would have never guessed I would be using the Periodic Table on a daily basis! It is an extremely interesting field and each day I never know what will come across my desk.

Would you, or an alum you know, be interested in sharing your story? The PGAA wants to hear from you! Email upgalum@pitt.edu and tell us why you or someone you know would like to be interviewed, and you, he, or she could be our next Alumni Spotlight. ▲

Call for Nominations: PGAA Alumnus of Distinction

Nominations are now being accepted for the PGAA Alumnus of Distinction. To make a nomination, visit www.greensburg.pitt.edu/Alumni and click on the link for the Alumnus of Distinction Nomination Form. Deadline for submitting nominations is September 9.

This award acknowledges excellence among alumni at Pitt-Greensburg. All candidates must have graduated from or completed courses at Pitt-Greensburg.

- Candidates will be evaluated on the basis of their:
- ◆ outstanding level of professional achievement;

St. Clair Lecture:
David Nasaw to discuss
 Andrew Carnegie

The St. Clair Lecture, presented by Westmoreland Heritage, the University of Pittsburgh at Greensburg, and the Westmoreland County Historical Society, will feature David Nasaw, PhD, professor of history at City University of New York, on Wednesday, October 12 at 7:30 p.m. in Ferguson Theater (Smith Hall). Register for this free, public event by calling 724-836-7497.

Nasaw, author of Andrew Carnegie, will provide insight into the life of Andrew Carnegie, a man who figured so prominently in the industrial, economic, cultural, and economic development of Southwestern Pennsylvania.

Published in 2007, Nasaw's book was a finalist for the Pulitzer Prize for Biography and won the New York Historical Society Prize in American History. It is only the second full-length biography of Carnegie in nearly 40 years. Nasaw's meticulous research will appeal to those interested in the Gilded Age. ▲

Marvosh and Klumpp open
 Joan Chambers Concert Series

The Joan Chambers Concert Series will open at 7:30 p.m. on November 11 with a performance by alto Emily Marvosh and pianist Matt Klumpp. This free, public event will be held in the Mary Lou Campana Chapel and Lecture Center.

Marvosh is active in opera and oratorio in the Boston area. As a soloist, she has performed with Opera Boston, Boston Lyric Opera, the Back Bay Chorale, Handel and Haydn Society, L'Academie, the Providence Singers, Longwood Opera, and the Intermezzo Chamber Opera.

Klumpp grew up in Trappe, PA, where he studied piano with John Charles. Klumpp has performed with the Westmoreland Symphony, the Friday Evening Music Club, and the Theatre Factory. He serves as the president of the Pennsylvania Music Teachers' Association in Westmoreland County and maintains teaching studios in Harrison City and Greensburg. He currently serves as organist and music director for Grace United Church in Jeannette.

The spring performance will feature the Heinz Chapel Choir in Ferguson Theater at 7:30 p.m. on Saturday, April 21, 2012. Other performances in the series are being confirmed at this writing. ▲

Sports Law Expert to discuss NFL & NBA Lockouts

Mark Conrad, JD, will present "The NFL and NBA Lockouts of 2011: The Battles, the Strategies, and the Role of the Courts" at 7:30 p.m. on Wednesday, October 5, at the Mary Lou Campana Chapel and Lecture Center. This event is free and open to the public.

Conrad is an associate professor of Law and Ethics at Fordham University's School of Business Administration and adjunct professor of law at New York Law School. He emphasizes the interplay of business and legal considerations in sports governance, contract negotiations, sponsorships, and enforcement of intellectual property rights. His writings have been published in academic, legal, and general circulation publications, including the "New York Times," "Wall Street Journal," "Sports Business Journal," and the "New York Law Journal." He is a frequent blogger for Sports Law Blog.

He notes, "In 2011, NFL and NBA fans have been fascinated, frustrated, and angered at the labor-management disputes that have transpired. The recently settled four-month NFL dispute and the current NBA lockout involve wealthy owners and (mostly) wealthy players in a struggle for the billions in revenues produced through their joint efforts. Because of their considerable resources, both sides have utilized a cadre of expensive legal talent to attain—or try to attain, in the case of the NBA—a settlement that is beneficial to each respective side." ▲
